We collect and use your data to give effect to your membership of AIPPI United Kingdom (AIPPI UK) including processing your membership application and renewal, informing you about activities and events of AIPPI UK or which AIPPI UK is supporting, informing third parties hosting AIPPI UK events for security and attendance, and responding to requests from bodies dealing with continuous personal development or education. You become a member of AIPPI internationally when you join AIPPI UK and we will therefore pass on your details to AIPPI. AIPPI UK operates entirely through volunteers and does not maintain its own systems. Your data will be processed on computer systems owned by our volunteers or on computer systems to which they have access. Your information may therefore be held by AIPPI officers and their assistants on systems operated by them or by third parties including their employers. Employers' servers may be located in the UK, elsewhere in the EEA, or overseas. Our volunteers may have your information on, or access your information from, devices with which they travel outside the EEA. For more detail on how we use your personal data, including how you can exercise your rights in respect of it, see our full Privacy Policy here.

Declaration:

1) I/my corporation support/s the aims of The International Association for the Protection of Intellectual Property (AIPPI), in particular the strengthening and encouragement of systems

² Required if you are claiming junior membership; otherwise optional (but useful as age profile of the whole membership can play a role in defining programmes and initiatives for the future).

³ Optional (but helpful in the event of gender-specific initiatives).
